Prof. (Dr.) Yogesh Pratap Singh
Vice-Chancellor
National Law University Tripura

It is It is with great pride and immense pleasure that I extend my warmest greetings to all readers of this brochure of the Legal Aid Society of National Law University, Tripura. Legal aid is not merely a service; it is an essential instrument for ensuring access to justice and upholding the constitutional promise of equality before the law. In a diverse country like India, and particularly in a state like Tripura, where sections of society continue to face social, economic, and geographical barriers in accessing legal resources and representation, the importance of meaningful legal aid initiatives cannot be overstated. The Legal Aid Society of NLU Tripura reflects the University's firm commitment to the principles of justice, equality, dignity, and social responsibility. Through its various outreach, awareness, and community engagement initiatives, the Society seeks to bridge the gap between the law and the communities it is intended to serve, ensuring that justice remains accessible to all, irrespective of their social or economic circumstances. Equally important is the opportunity that these initiatives provide to our students. Legal education cannot be confined to classrooms and textbooks alone; meaningful engagement with communities and real-world legal issues enables students to develop practical legal skills while fostering empathy, ethical responsibility, and a deeper understanding of the human dimensions of law. I am confident that the Legal Aid Society will continue to strengthen its outreach, promote legal awareness, and contribute meaningfully towards improving access to justice in Tripura. I commend the students, faculty members, and all those associated with the Society for their dedication and commitment to this important cause. Let us continue to work together towards building a society in which the law serves as an instrument of empowerment and justice is not a privilege of the few, but a right accessible to all. Reel Making Series

The Legal Aid Society of National Law University Tripura has adopted innovative methods to spread legal awareness, embracing social media as a powerful tool for outreach. This year, the Society launched an engaging Reel Series—short, impactful videos designed to inform and empower citizens about their rights in a simple and relatable manner. Each member contributed to creating reels on diverse topics, including railway passenger rights, the Uniform Civil Code (UCC), fundamentals of cyberlaw, and awareness about the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act, Disaster Management, Rights of rape victims among others. The aim was to break down complex laws into concise, visually appealing content that could reach people of all ages and backgrounds.

By making legal provisions understandable and relevant to daily life, the initiative bridges the gap between the law and the common citizen. From guiding people on legal remedies to busting myths about the justice system, the reels have sparked meaningful conversations and enhanced public understanding of legal rights and responsibilities. The project also fostered teamwork, creativity, and a strong sense of responsibility among members, reinforcing the Society's mission of "Access to Justice for All." Through this innovative approach, the Legal Aid Society continues to empower communities with the belief that legal knowledge is the first step toward justice. This initiative reaffirms our commitment to ensuring that every citizen has access to the tools, knowledge, and confidence needed to assert their rights—because we believe that knowledge is power, and justice must be within everyone's reach.

The engaging performance effectively depicted the struggles of women facing abuse, leaving a deep emotional impact on the audience and driving home the urgent need for awareness and action.

The session encouraged interactive discussions where villagers actively shared their concerns, asked questions, and gained clarity on accessing justice through legal remedies and institutional support. Nukkad Natak Series:
Raising Voices, Spreading Awareness

As part of its mission to spread legal awareness through innovative, community-centric methods, the Legal Aid Society of National Law University Tripura organized a series of "Nukkad Nataks" (street plays) across Tripura. Using the power of performance, these plays transformed complex legal issues into engaging stories that sparked dialogue and inspired change.

1. Albert Ekka Park, Agartala – Domestic Violence & Abuse

In the bustling surroundings of Albert Ekka Park, the Legal Aid Society staged a moving Nukkad Natak on the theme of domestic violence and abuse. To create a deep sense of belongingness and emotional connection with the audience, the play drew inspiration from the popular television serial Anupama, portraying relatable household scenarios that mirrored situations many viewers were already familiar with. Through compelling dialogues and realistic enactments, the performers highlighted the impact of domestic abuse, the importance of speaking out, and the legal protections available under Indian law. The audience, captivated by the familiar storytelling style, not only empathized with the characters but also actively engaged in post-performance discussions. The message was clear — abuse thrives in silence, and legal remedies, awareness, and community support are powerful tools for change.

2. Killa, Gomati District – Women's Rights and Empowerment

In the heart of Uttar Baramura VC, Killa, Udaipur, Gomati District, Tripura, the Legal Aid Society presented a vibrant Nukkad Natak focused on 'women's rights and empowerment'. Through powerful monologues, moments of struggle, and eventual triumph, the narrative explored themes of gender equality, education for girls, workplace rights, and protection against harassment and discrimination.

Cont.....

The play encouraged women to assert their rights under the Constitution and various protective laws, while also urging the larger community to stand as allies. The interactive nature of the performance led to meaningful dialogues with local women, many of whom voiced their own experiences and aspirations. The Natak served as both an inspiration and a practical guide toward building a more inclusive society.

3. Kendriya Sansodhanghar, Agartala – Prisoners' Rights

Inside the high-security walls of Bishalgarh Prison House, Kendriya Sansodhanagar, the Legal Aid Society presented a deeply humanizing portrayal of prisoners' rights, using the impactful real-life story of Ranga and Billa. The narrative showed how, despite the severity of their circumstances, access to constitutional safeguards, fair trial processes, and legal representation could pave the way for justice and, in some cases, eventual freedom.

The performance resonated strongly with inmates, as it bridged the gap between abstract legal rights and their real-world application. It showcased rights related to legal aid, bail, humane treatment, and rehabilitation — reminding everyone that dignity is an inalienable right, regardless of one's incarceration status. Prison officials praised the initiative for its relevance, while inmates expressed gratitude for receiving hope and actionable information through such an engaging format.

Impact:

Through these three plays, the Legal Aid Society reached a wide range of audiences — from city-goers to rural communities to prison inmates — using relatable narratives and popular storytelling techniques to make legal knowledge accessible. Whether invoking a beloved TV serial or real legal success stories, these performances reaffirmed the Society's mission: "Access to justice for all, delivered through empathy, education, and empowerment."

FAQ Drafting

"Know Your Rights – Anywhere, Anytime"

At the Legal Aid Society of National Law University, Tripura, our mission is simple yet powerful—bringing the law closer to the people. In 2025, we launched an impactful new initiative: drafting and sharing Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs) on our official handles @legalaid.nlut.

This project was born from a simple idea—many citizens aren't fully aware of their legal rights or the easy remedies available to them. By compiling common queries and answering them in clear, accessible language, we are making the law understandable to everyone, regardless of their educational or social background.

Our FAQs cover a wide range of topics: constitutional rights, labour protections, women and child welfare laws, consumer rights, filing police complaints, property disputes, and accessing government schemes. Each response is carefully researched and simplified by our student members under faculty guidance, ensuring both accuracy and clarity.

By publishing these answers across our social media platforms, we aim to bridge the gap between legal knowledge and everyday life—empowering people to make informed choices and assert their rights confidently. This digital outreach also helps counter misinformation, replacing hearsay with authentic, reliable guidance.

The FAQs initiative is more than an information service—it is a step towards building a legally aware society. Because when people know their rights, they can stand up for themselves, for justice, and for others.

Spreading Awareness, Securing Justice.

LegalAid Lawyering

The Legal Aid Society, in its continued pursuit of promoting access to justice and spreading awareness on legal rights, successfully organised a Workshop on Legal Aid Lawyering in collaboration with the National Law School of India University (NLSIU) and the Department of Justice.

The workshop was graced by eminent speakers and dignitaries from the legal fraternity. Prof. (Dr.) Sairam Bhat, Professor of Law at NLSIU, and Adv. Jaibatruka Mohanta, Research Associate at NLSIU, joined us to share their expertise and enrich the discussions. The highlight of the inaugural session was the presence of Hon'ble Justice Dr. T. Amarnath Goud, Judge, Tripura High Court, who presided over the event as the Chief Guest. Justice Dr. Goud formally unveiled the Official Brochure of the Legal Aid Society for the year 2023–24, marking a moment of pride and inspiration for the Society.

The workshop provided participants with valuable insights into the principles and practical aspects of legal aid lawyering, focusing on the role of young lawyers, law students, and institutions in bridging the gap between law and society. One of the engaging sessions was conducted by Prof. (Dr.) Sairam Bhat on the seldom-discussed yet increasingly relevant topic of Prenuptial Agreements, covering its legal standing, practical considerations, and evolving jurisprudence in India.

As part of our commitment to public outreach, the Society also organised two Awareness Programmes aimed at educating citizens about their legal rights and the remedies available to them.

These were accompanied by Jansunwai (Public Hearings), where members of the community were invited to present their legal grievances. Our team, along with resource persons, provided guidance and practical solutions to the issues raised, thereby directly addressing the concerns of the people.

Through such initiatives, the Legal Aid Society reaffirms its mission to serve as a bridge between the legal system and the community, ensuring that justice is not a privilege of the few but a right accessible to all. The collaborative spirit of this year's workshop and outreach activities stands as a testament to our belief that meaningful change begins with informed and empowered citizens.
